

EQUIPMENT TRAINING PROGRAM

Increase Productivity:

There are many benefits to employee training and development:

- Knowledge of best practices of operation and maintenance
- Improved productivity due to proper machine operations and routine machine maintenance
- Increased job satisfaction, morale, and motivation

INFORMAL TRAINING

Informal training is typically done during the installation of the machine by one of our service technicians. It is a brief overview of the equipment operation and changeover.

STANDARD MATERIALS TRAINING

The middle level offering between formal and informal training programs. In addition to the mainly hands-on approach of informal programs, each student receives a binder containing applicable hard copies of the standard documentation package received with your machine. A Tripack instructor will review the documentation with your team to make sure they understand the contents and how to use it.

FORMAL TRAINING

Well-defined and structured training programs, offering the ideal solution for adult learning. In addition to a defined course curriculum and documentation package of Standard Materials Training course, the Formal Training program utilizes classroom multi-media presentations that is modularized by subject. Assessment testing during the training helps to reinforce learnings. Formal training is about a 50/50 mix of classroom and hands-on training, using your machine.

CUSTOMIZED TRAINING MATERIALS

Each formal training program typically consists of customized training binders for the instructor and participants, as well as a comprehensive PowerPoint presentation shown to the class containing videos and images to provide visual references to complex topics. Please note that the presentation will not be part of the documentation package left after the training is complete.

Tripack trainers have all been service technicians and are used to working in a production environment. Our trainers are also PMMI certified. PMMI certification is a multi-day training process that teaches our instructors how to deliver the best training experience to adults.

For more information about our training services or to schedule training, please call or email us!

docs-train@tripack.net

1-866-900-1255